For in the night school conducted here each year from the middle of October until far in the spring, anybody may continue his education in a field that presents all the subjects one would desire. Business training may be secured, or if one has it, and wishes to broaden out a foreign language, or an English course may be taken up. ## U. S. Move in Reparations Mix-up Expected to Be Subject of Consultation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London.—Ambassador Harvey has been called home for consultation, it was stated at the American embassy Friday afternoon.

He will sail on the Berengaria, Dec. 23. He will not be accompanied by Mrs. Harvey, who will leave the preceding day for a visit to Madeira.

The announcement follows word from London that Ambassador Harvey would return to the United States soon for a short visit. The first understanding was that his trip was largely due to anxiety about the health of Mrs. Harvey, who was expected to accompany him.

The nature of the consultation for which the ambassador was summoned was not known at the embassy, where it was said the message calling him to Washington merely said it was "for a consultation." It is presumed the discussion with Secretary Hughes will cover the whole range of European affairs, including allied debts reparations and kindred subjects.

GAINING SIGNERS FOR CATTLE TEST

Good Meetings Held in Clinton and Evansville—Bradford Over.

Rock county moved up another peg on the climb to being one of the accredited areas for the cattle test. The result of meetings held in Clinton Thursday afternoon and in Evansville Thursday night, Clinton township and the Evansville section, Union West, have expected to hit around 90 percent for the test.

County workers now express full confidence that Rock will have 800 signers to the cattle test. The area test to eradicate bovine tuberculosis by Jan. 1, 1923.

The theater in Clinton village was packed by farmers and others interested in the county program to improve livestock and protect public health through the medium of the tuberculosis test on every herd in the county. Bad weather failed to keep people away from the Baptist church, in both districts petition carriers were named to make the complete canvass at once.

Protect Tested Herds

Clinton farmers were concerned over the status of cattle owned by farmers residing just across the state line in Illinois but who pasture their cattle in Rock county. It was declared that the interests of the farmers in the tested district would be fully protected either by a forced test of the Illinois owned cattle or regulations preventing them from being put on land near property used for pasturing tested cattle. The same rule may apply to township lines.

"The average value received in Rock county for all cattle, grades of registered stock, regardless of sex, amounted to $110 for the season. They were an accredited county and lead in the number of cattle that have passed the test," declared Dr. Arthur J. Killians. "It is doubtful if the average price on all cattle sold in Rock county this year would be $50 and there is every reason to believe Rock county has as good herds as there are in the United States, except that they are not all tested."

Packing house reports show that the percentage of infection of swine from southern Wisconsin, fed skim milk and whey, runs as high as 25 percent, and with a clean county and new laws to require careful pasteurization, I am sure this loss can be reduced in Rock county to a nominal amount and the premium obtained of 20 cents a hundred."

Campaign Next Week

Following the meeting to be held in Harmony town hall Friday night, the county committee pushing the campaign will turn their attention to the next week's meetings. The meeting schedule arranged next week which will complete the campaign in most of the unorganized townships is as follows:

Monday, Dec. 18, Plymouth township.
Tuesday, Dec. 19, Court house, Janesville, for three townships: La Prairie, Rock and Janesville.
Wednesday, Dec. 20, Fulton.

If one woman can sell doll dresses by means of Want Ads, and make a nice profit (over $50), other women can do the same thing.

Morgan held Thursday in a special ruling. Should the counties fail to hold their special election before the first Monday in January, vacancies in the office of sheriff would be filled by the governor, the ruling established.

currency that Mr. Harvey had been called to Washington in connection with the situation as to German reparations, now threatening a rupture between Great Britain and France.

It has been stated in administration circles here that the Washington government regards the reparations situation as a "red hot" and is anxious to afford any aid toward settlement it could extend. Ambassador Harvey would be the logical channel for any informal exchange of views between the allied and American governments during the interval before the council of plenipotentiaries after New Year.

The developments of the past 24 hours were interpreted as giving further significance to the recent conference between Secretary Hughes and J. P. Morgan. Because of the vast extent to which the Morgan firm has handled British financial interests in this country, it is pointed out it would be direct, concerned over deliberations regarding settlements.

German Envoy Calls.

Dr. Otto Wiedefeld, the German ambassador, conferred at length with Secretary Hughes, but no information was available as to whether the conversations touched on reparations or took cognizance of the serious economic situation in Germany.

The call of the German envoy at the state department, however, coming just before the usual holiday season, was regarded as a possible indication that the president and his official family might desire all available information as to present conditions in Germany, as they relate to reparations payments.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE WORLD?

What's the matter with the world? Nothing more than always has been. Three hundred years ago we were told that there was a general exodus impending toward the dogs. It is so now. We have more organized quacks than ever, hawking wares which if used will be sure to save and regenerate a dying world. They are mostly done, as Carlyle said, by "quidnuncs with a smattering of grammar." In 1859 when Carlyle wrote his "Later Day Pamphlets," he found a hundred or so persons of the same kind who now meet, writing on all the topics which we roll under the tongue and wrestle with pen and typewriter. Carlyle proceeded to scold, dissect and with keen sarcasm, hold the propagandists up to ridicule. Forty years ago it was about the same as in Carlyle's day. "Thirty years ago we had a silver wave wherefrom we were to receive that salvation of civilization which would take us to just a trifling distance short of millennial bliss. We did not get quite there but arrived at the place where we are now. We have organized propaganda down to a fine point. During the war when we had so many organized drives we brought into use a number of clever men and cleverer women who dressed well, fed well, and passed the time in talking to busy men and women about duty and such. When the war ended their occupation was gone—no, it was not, for they created new jobs and started new propaganda. Never has the world known such a deluge of written and printed "literature"—the Lord help us—but they call it "literature" themselves—for all sorts of things from selling nursery stock to using more copper and brass. "Then there are the societies—for Philippine independence, for Polish autonomy, for Soviet recognition, for public ownership of the railroads, for the railroads in support of their freight rates, for American support to the 'Near East' for aid to the Liberator republic, for releasing anarchists and public enemies, for helping France, relieving Russia, changing the tax system, for amending the constitution so that it will cover everything one may conceive in reference to the ordinary walks of life, for eating more peanuts and dates and corn, for drinking more orange juice, for wearing more hair nets and more fibre silk stockings, all with some clever person at its head and willing freely. Some are of trade, some of politics, some have to do with social welfare of a doubtful nature, some have lessons in the pitiable plight of Germany, others tell us if we do not aid France we will disrupt and bring disaster to the world. Still others write and print that we are on the verge of an international collapse if we press the obligations owing us by Europe, and that we ought to go in and lick the tar out of a billion Moslems, while they cry for less of a navy and no army. And now we are beginning to have another remedy for all industrial ills—open the gates for immigration. "We need more man power and so let 'em all in from Kottentot to Chinaman, from Hindia to Bulgarian, from Lascare to Africanian." Congress is crushed under the weight of argument that unless we do this we will have no labor and industry will die. A year ago we had a report from the secretary of labor showing that 3,000,000 men were unemployed. These have all been absorbed and still we want more. Shall they come and, with another turn of the wheel, give us eight or ten million unemployed? One thing that matters with the world is altogether too much organized propaganda. The cut-away coat crowd feeding fat on this sort of stuff should get into an honest channel of living and quit the parasite class. What we need is not a search after the end of the rainbow for a bag of gold that isn't there, but some good old fashioned hard work and honesty of purpose. The tocsin of alarm is sounded every day. The people rush out only to find that it is another blow-hard propagandist with a new scheme to jingle a few dollars from the pockets of the gullible and after awhile all are in that gullible class—all fall for the quick remedies of social life and reach out with unsatisfied hands pleading for more. We look for a Moses to lead us from the wilderness and find as we test a hundred or so that the whiskers are false and the doctrine lacks a peg or so to make it work. No matter how other industries may lag, the remedial nut factory goes on with its chatter. What's the matter with the world is largely that what we are told is a wilderness and from which we ask to be led and go on looking for a leader to give us manna, is really a beautiful place, and filled with whole choruses of joy and happiness. Whenever we realize that is so, we won't care for the quick remedies or the false prophets of propaganda—we will be glad we are living and help extend the span of our lives.

Progress at Muscle Shoals

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—The general public may not be aware of it, but the great power project at Muscle Shoals has not been abandoned while congress bickers and dickers over the question of accepting Henry Ford's proposal to take it over and complete it as a private enterprise. Work is going steadily forward on the construction of the big Wilson dam under the direction of government engineers and reports received in Washington show that rapid progress is being made. Government funds are being expended at the rate of $600,000 a month and more than 1,500 men are now engaged in a race against time and the Tennessee river. The race is to complete a complicated job of coffer damming and foundation excavating and laying before the winter floods come that would seriously interfere with the task and prospects are said to be excellent that the elements would be circumvented. When this section is finished only one foundation section will remain to be dug and poured and the engineers plan to put it in next summer and complete it before flood time next December. Meanwhile work is being pushed on the upper portions of the dam and it is estimated that the completed job will be ready in a little over two years. Of even greater importance and interest to the public is the assurance that the work now being done represents the cheapest and best construction that has been accomplished since the project was started. Wages are far below those paid under war-time conditions and the number of men employed is being limited by the strictest consideration of economy and efficiency. Originally, it is said, there were so many men on the job that they got in each other's way and wage rates were little short of scandalous. That labor costs are now at a minimum is indicated by the fact that common labor is being paid only $1.50 to $2.00 a day. Water boys received substantially more than that when the war emergency was on. Work was stopped at Muscle Shoals more than two years ago when congress refused to provide any additional funds, but last spring this decision was reversed and the resumption of operations was made possible by an appropriation of $7,500,000. To this sum an additional half million was made available by a presidential order transferring certain unexpended appropriation balances to Muscle Shoals construction uses. Approximately $6,000,000 of these funds are left and it is expected that this will suffice to carry on the work at the present rate of expenditure until next September. By that time Congress will probably have made further provision for the project. On July 31 last when the construction work was resumed, the engineers estimated that the Wilson dam was 75 per cent completed, that 39 per cent of the necessary materials had been purchased and that 40 per cent of the cost of the whole job had been laid out. This dam is the big feature of the Muscle Shoals power project and is expected to develop 600,000 horsepower. There has now been expended on it $19,000,000 out of a total estimated cost of $45,500,000, and before it is finished it will be necessary for Congress to provide something over $26,000,000 in addition to the funds now available. There are two other dams in the operation, but No. 1 will be for navigation purposes only and will cost only a million and a half. Dam No. 2, which is officially No. 2, has not been started as yet. It is expected to develop 200,000 horsepower. When Wilson dam is finished it will be one of the engineering wonders of the world. More concrete is being poured in its construction than was required in building the famous Assuan Dam on the River Nile, and 1,200,000 cubic yards of masonry will be required as compared with 1,179,000 for Assuan. The work is divided into sections and of the foundation sections 56 out of 58 are done, while half of the remainder will be finished this year. Three blocks out of a total of 21 in the spillway section are finished to the river crest of 452 feet and on the large island in the middle of the river which is crossed by the dam 19 blocks are completed to a height of 460 feet. The foundation level is at 404 feet and the superstructure will rise 202 feet above that so that the roadway on top of the completed dam will be 252 feet. The Muscle Shoals region might well be called "The Land of IF" at this time, for the people there are living in a haze in which everything they say and plan is predicated on the magic word of two letters that is pregnant of all hope and fear. Their recovery from the slough of despond into which they were plunged a year ago and their future prosperity, as they see it, all depend on "if" the great project is completed, but more essentially on "if" it is turned over to Henry Ford and the Detroit machine is given an opportunity to demonstrate the wonders he can perform. Naturally the spirit of speculation is rampant and land values are soaring. Florence, the small town near the base of the Wilson dam, is regarded by its people as a potential metropolis of anywhere from 100,000 to 1,000,000 inhabitants. Business property is being sold at prices many times the acreage values of a few years ago. The same story may be told of Sheffield and Tusculum. The spirit of speculation is rampant and is unquestionably for Ford, according to a recent report from there. "They have their real hopes of wealth on Henry Ford, whom they regard as the Midas of industry, the man whose touch means gold. They believe that if his offer for Muscle Shoals is accepted money will flow into their coffers with the speed of water rushing through the sluiceways of the colossal dam. "They have tables made out showing the thousands Ford will bring for this and that, et cetera. Maybe that's why Henry Ford's picture has replaced that of Rudolph Valentino and General Pershing in the hotels and barbershops thereabouts. He doesn't get it there, but he has many appointed brides and grooms and many pickaninies named in vain. "This was said by way of comment on the statement that the enthusiasts down there are making all their plans and dates contingent upon it or when Ford shall become the arbiter of their destinies. It is even reported that one man who was suffering from a bad appendix had promised himself and his family that he would go to a hospital and have his operation just as soon as the government turned Muscle Shoals over to Ford. Observers in Washington incline to the belief that it will be a long time before that man gets rid of his offending appendix. The opposition in congress to the Ford proposal has always been formidable and it has not been lessened by the increasing evidence that Ford has presidential aspirations and will shy his hat into the ring in 1924. ### JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

CHARACTER.
Build it well and build it straight.
Stretch enough to buffet fate.
Staunch enough to bear the blow
Life compels us all to know:
Have it rugged, have it clean,
Nowhere false and nowhere mean,
Whatever be your post,
Make your character your boast.

Build your character to be
Fit for every eye to see;
Never let some secret sin
On some shameful thing creep in;
Be as clean as powder to his foe,
Who must hide what he may know,
But who keeps his record true
Has no foe who may pursue.

Shed of loss or spite of gain,
Let your character remain
Free from blemish, free from guile;
Let it sing and dance and smile.
Keep it cheerful, keep it kind,
Keep it honest and of good mind,
Then whatever way befall,
You may triumph over all.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

DREAMING.
I had a dream the other night.
Yea, but it was a corker.
A dream that would bring pure delight
To an old New Yorker.

I wanted to go to a theatre
To be among those present.
The ticket salesman smiled. Yes, sir,
And he was really pleasant.

I got into a taxicab.
A taxicab, you know, to do,
The legal law was just one buck.
He charged me only two.

I took a glass of orange juice
And it was mild and peach.
"Taste my fruit of oranges"
And not of prussic acid.

"A beauty chorus," said the sign.
The old familiar looking.
I bought a seat and sized them up.
And two were quite good looking.

I dropped a penny in the slot.
The crowd let out a shout.
But, strange as this may seem to you,
A piece of gum dropped out.

I went into a restaurant
And hung my hat with care.
And when I'd finished my repast,
My hat—it still was there.

A young woman who is a fluster in the book-selling game, rushed into an office the other day and cried: "Buy a book quick. I throw epileptic fits." Salesmanship plus.

At the present moment, for the first time in many years, we have that much-desired wealthier feeling. It is largely because the "merchandise" association with wealthy persons is not directly in touch with great wealth, but we sort of—of consanguinity or propinquity to it, but a certain nearness which is difficult to describe—a sort of hazy connection exists between us and immense riches. The fact of the matter is that we are now being treated for a slight indisposition by the Standard Oil Company. We are taking a certain brand of tonic prescribed and recommended by that great concern. It costs us only $1, but the price doesn't even insinuate in the remotest way the splendid feeling of financial well-being which it has instilled into our jaded consciousness.

Who's Who Today

WILLIAM BUTLER YEATS.
William Butler Yeats, the Irish poet and dramatist who boasted once that he had never loved in his life and added that "a man cannot do his duty to art and womanhood at the same time," is to be among the thirty members of the new Irish Senate to be appointed by the President of the Irish Free State, according to present indications. Yeats is known in America as one of the foremost writers of the Irish school. He visited the United States some months ago to give a series of lectures in many of the larger cities. He was born in Dublin in June, 1865. Educated at the "Fountain School" in Hamlet, and at the "Fountain School" in Dublin he studied art for three years but left art for literature. He married in 1917 and has one daughter. His plays have received popularity in this country through their production by Theatrical Guilds, little theaters and other dramatic groups of the non-commercial type.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
Dec. 15, 1882.—Zero weather has arrived, the thermometer going to that mark last night. The New England manufacturing companies, which have been trying out electric lights for the past two months, has closed the purchase of a number of them. Chief Engineer Kelly is asking the council for feed for two horses to be used this winter to draw the hose carts, too heavy in winter for the 11 men.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Dec. 15, 1892.—Reports of tobacco sales are coming in, the price ranging all the way from five to ten cents.—Wisconsin editors returned here today from a two weeks' trip to Florida. A number of Janesville and Rock county newspaper men were among them.—Frank Mount and Miss Edith Severhill were married yesterday, the occasion being one of the society events of the winter.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Dec. 15, 1902.—Sunday afternoon meetings at the Y. M. C. A. are attracting a great many young men. J. A. Craig spoke yesterday.—Directors of the Sinsinabot Golf club decided to raise dues at a meeting last night. Increasing expenses have put the club in debt.—Schools will be closed only the usual length of time this winter, as coal can now be obtained.

TEN YEARS AGO
Dec. 15, 1912.—City Health Officer Dr. M. A. Cunningham has submitted a report telling the condition of the city's health. The many diseases, especially those of children, which caused an epidemic here, have now been put under control.

REFUGE, STRENGTH, HELP

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

It is a mistake for the general run of sick people to come directly to a specialist, writes one of a group of specialists, and just as much a mistake for the specialist to accept them as patients. I have seen some ludicrous and some tragic mistakes made by very good specialists because of the lack of perspective. A specialist sees only his own work, and the better he is in his own work the narrower his perspective. There is one danger where they always insist on eliminating any part of the matter which may be wrong with the case. I have seen tonsils removed because of a reflex aphonia due to tuberculosis. I have seen countless appendectomies by excellent operators, functional disturbances. I have seen a nervous specialist overlook pernicious anemia as the cause of a spinal cord disturbance, and a skin specialist use his bacteria and radiations on a case of diabetes—not because they were not capable men in their own fields, but because they lacked perspective. Mr. Theodore Layman requires considerable enlightenment on the matter of specialists in medicine. Life should be encouraged to regard the reputable specialist as a very valuable expert, it properly used. It is only human that the very best specialists in their several fields of interest should lack the rounded judgment which is necessary for general diagnosis. This deplores of the "massing" of the family doctor and general practitioners in a case of the interest of the patient. You and I should help the people to find that out before they get hurt too badly. Should this fall under the notice of Mr. Layman, the suggestion of the specialist will perhaps have greater weight, coming from a specialist. The "passing" of the general practitioner has been hailed by some specialists and their friends for many years, and who perhaps fathering the thought, Dr. John Brown, over 60 years ago, wrote in the preface to papers of his hospital associates: "So also in medicine, there are now as few family doctors as servants." All this sort of thing is greatly to be deplored, and in large cities, and much from this love of change, of taking everything, everything, and at least, damned eventually if it be in the line of running from us "charming" specialists to another. And the author appends a footnote relating to the "love of having things explained," in which he quotes Dr. Cullen who writes: "I have been obliged to please my patients sometimes with reasons, and I have found that any will pass, even with able divines and acute lawyers." The specialist habit is largely cultivated by folk who have run the gamut of self diagnosis and self doctoring—famous folk who think they know as much as an "ordinary" doctor about their ailments, and not quite as much as a specialist. Good family doctors urge the counsel of specialists every day. Wise patients will consult specialists only by the family doctor's advice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Chinglin Typhoid.
To settle an argument, kindly in-quire me whether there is any way one can catch typhoid fever besides drinking contaminated water or being bitten by a mosquito. (Dr. L. C. B.)
Answer.—Many epidemics of typhoid fever have occurred from eating food, which has been prepared by human beings, and from drinking milk, and using a typhoid carrier, that is a person now apparently well but who has had typhoid fever perhaps several years ago, and is carrying the bacteria in his system. Typhoid fever by being exposed to it in the sense of mere contact with the patient, for the germ is given off in the intestinal tract, and is not conveyed to food or drink and ingested in order to produce the disease. In the case of a carrier responsible for such epidemics as I referred to, the bacteria are in the stool, and the carrier's stool or contaminated fingers. This is a sufficiently common place to warrant more rigid regulations requiring multiple lavatories in connection with all places where food is served. To eat even a sandwich with your hand having washed the hands is bad hygiene, to accept food served by an unclean person or in an unsanitary place is a risk as well as an affront to sensibilities.

Consumption Never Inherited.
Is there any possibility of my child inheriting consumption? Their father died of it three years ago. (Mrs. L. C. B.)
Answer.—No. But they may have been infected with the disease if their father lived at home when he had it, and tuberculosis in children often spreads from parent before lighting in to active disease. So have the children regularly observed and examined by a doctor.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.
Dora, a girl of fifteen, is a bright, cheerful, and high spirited girl. She lives with her high spirited mother, Gladys, and her Aunt Maude and Uncle Peter. Dora is a member of the Junior League, and is a very popular girl. She is also employed by Peter.

Dora is accepted and neglected by the little circle in Norris City over which Gladys rules. Gladys has all the attention. Dora has no friends until Morton Newberry, shy and quiet himself, finds himself attracted to her. A sweet little friendship begins to ripen into real mutual love, when Gladys suddenly comes across every time they see each other.

WHO WON?

Chapter 22
As long as Morton seemed to wait for a protection against the stormy advances of Gladys, Dora felt sorry and wanted to help him. The instant she began to feel that he was letting Gladys dominate him, that he was yielding to her, she felt that she should do something to help him. She was so sensitive that she felt him yield long before he himself did, which made her unhappiness that much longer.

Her cleverness may have gone as far as seeing that Gladys was deliberately trying to fascinate Morton. But it did not go far enough to see a way of saving him. The strange young man lounged over her direction and sat down on the arm of the best chair. This gave him a physical advantage which quite terrified her because she had to look far up to see him. "You're not dancing," he said. "Obviously! But an answer was needed."

She felt all hands at once. She crossed her arms, to hide her hands that way, remembered this an awkward position which she should never take, uncrossed them, clasped her knees, remembered Aunt Maude disapproved of this as "mannish" and ended by dropping her arms at each side, where they felt yards long. "No, I don't dance."

"This because she was afraid he would ask her." The strange man—she never learned his name—sat silent. She sat silent, trying to think of something to say, her brain paralyzed by her odd social nervousness. She thought he was looking at her feet, of course, her shoes were fearfully shabby. They made her feet look ugly and she was sure she had ugly feet anyway. So she crossed and uncrossed them and tried to hide them under the chair.

Dinner Stories

Two negro soldiers of the 25th Infantry were engaged in a boxing bout at Nogales, Ariz. The fight progressed merrily and fairly evenly for several rounds, much to the enjoyment of the assembled friends of the two contestants. Gradually, however, one of them seemed to be getting his rather prominent nose in the way of the other's eye, and was being hit repeatedly on this member. Irritated and exasperated by the pain and his inability to save himself, he finally exclaimed to his opponent: "Say, dere, nigger, whutfer you go on hittin' in de same spot? Da ain't no science in hittin' allus on de nose!"—Judge.

The Freshman, with an oneness of sentimentality, conceived of an air of cosmopolitanism borrowed from traveling salesmen. The Sophomore, with coarseness of carriage supported by the illusion of external emptiness. The Junior, soberly plied by visions of approaching influence in the home town Kiwanis club. The Senior, slightly aged by anticipation of the end of paternal remittances, by the necessity of finding a job and of terminating a pleasant engagement by marriage.—Northwestern Purple Parrot.

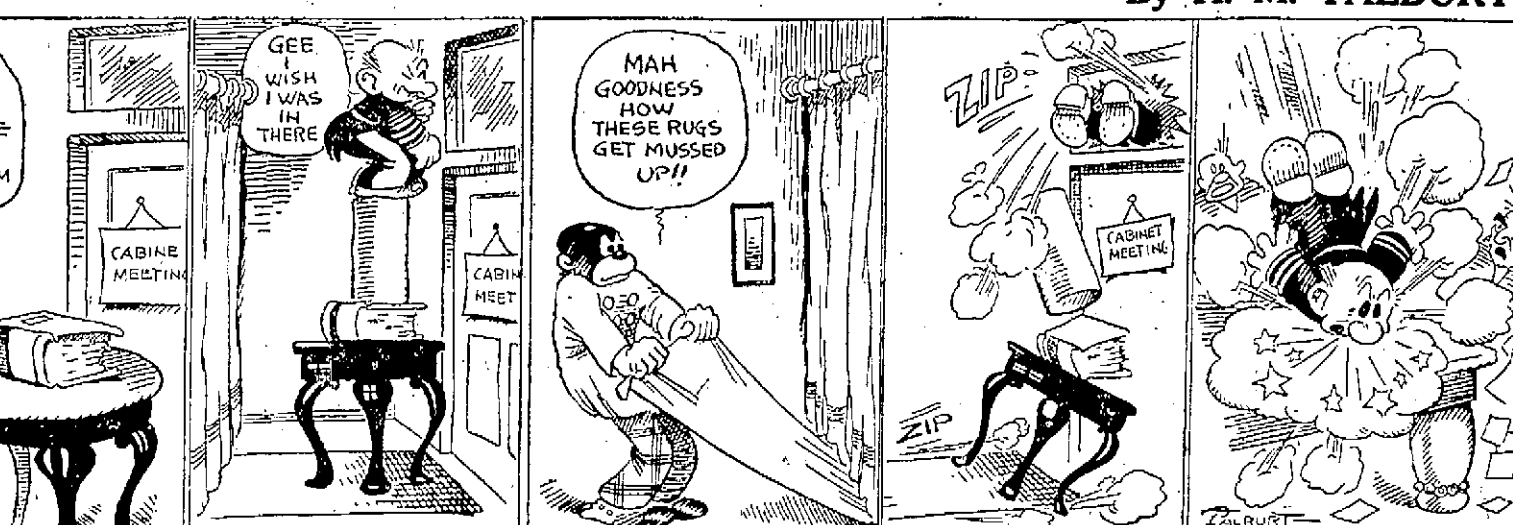

A man who is not usually a reader of fiction was found to be absorbed in "The Windy City" and to be reading it. When asked the cause of this obsession, he first looked furtively around the room to assure himself that nobody was within earshot; then he said, solemnly: "I married a Mobster!"—London Morning Post.

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

ENCOURAGING OLD AGE
There are two ways of encouraging old age. One is not to care about yourself, and the other is to go about looking as though the world mistreated you. If you belong to the latter sort, in my opinion you don't deserve what you want. You're a young man—you shouldn't get much sympathy. If you belong to the second sort—well, the world mistreats you, and many of us that it almost a normal state of affairs, so why worry? so much over it?

Real sorrow and real troubles are aging, we can only feel bad for those who are suffering. But even then, a certain sportsmanlike attitude about it before the world, "the brave face on the breaking heart," is a good thing to cultivate. I'm not preaching except from the point of view of the beauty doctor, who wants to see every woman with her lips curled half way into a smile, because this lifts droopy the expression sweet. It keeps the digestion and the disposition sweet too, and the whole reacts upon the appearance.

But most tears and sorrows are small—really they are, after all—and not worth the worry and grieving they get. Most of the people who go about with down drawn lips and morose expressions are bothering themselves about trifles and wearing away their youth and strength over nothing. A smile of even the most forced variety makes the face young and keeps it young—to say nothing of the good things it does to one's character. All of which doesn't mean that you should go about with a Gresham grin on your face all the time. I only mean—don't go about looking badly looking plump—for that brings on age and wrinkles.

WITCH-CHARM AND PIRATE-LOOT FOR LITTLE FRIENDLY FOLKS WHO LIKE ADVENTURES

"This is a VERY queer place," sighed Betty to Jenny Linn, her little rag doll, as she looked out over the desert. "The Indians live in a cliff, instead of houses. The squirrels burrow in the ground instead of holes in the trees, and the turtles call themselves 'tortises' and don't go near the water! I DO wish I could see something that looked like home."

"How will I do?" laughed Betty. "I've heard, and there in front stood Two Enormous Ears and Two Perfectly Huge Hing-Logs with a merry little rabbit hatched in between."

"Oh, hello You!" laughed Betty. "You're a new one. You don't look much like the rabbits at home—but I think you're every bit as nice!"

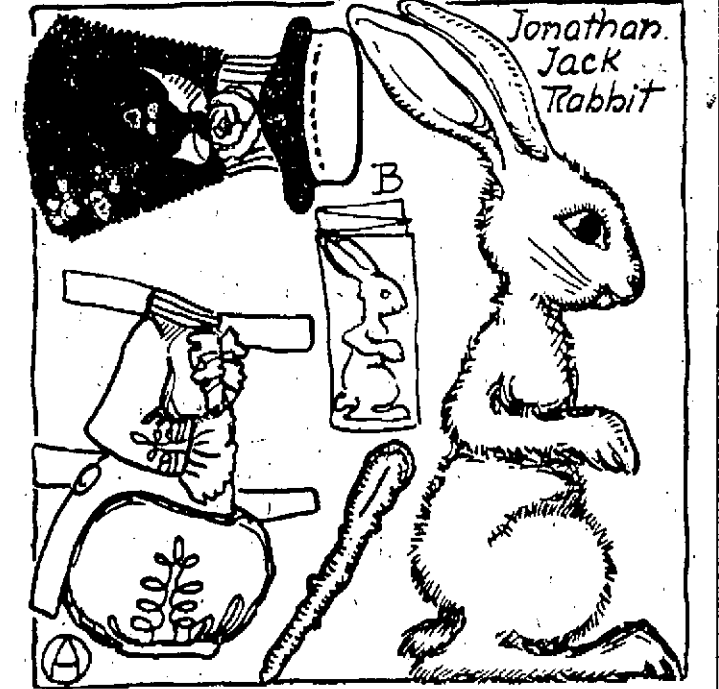

"I can do all the things they do, and scoots of things they can't. That's because I was built for the real, wild wilderness, and not pretty safe wood places. You have to have lots of tricks to live in the desert."

"And lots of hind legs too—judging by your shape," laughed Betty. "Aren't they beauties?" said he, flopping them about. "They're really wonderful legs, and they need to be used. I'd be a coyote's supper in no time at all. They're almost as strong as a kangaroo's and they carry me miles without tiring. I've got of enemies—the hawks, the wild cats, the foxes, and most of all the Indians, who hunt me to eat my flesh and make blankets out of my hide. But my hind legs carry me away from all of them."

"You must have hard work sitting them into your burrow," said Betty. "Do you have to build a special room for 'em?"

"Think you're funny, don't you?" grinned Jack Rabbit. "I don't live in a burrow. Any old bush is my home and when I'm hungry I cut the bark off my house!" And with a merry little chuckle, off he hopped.

But Polite Pencil drew this picture of him for you to color and dress. Like him? If you wish, you can make whole strings of rabbits, by folding a strip of paper, four inches wide and as long as you wish, tracing Jack on it, and then cutting through all the folds at once, as shown at B. Make the fold just wide enough to hold Jack.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, In Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 15 years old and in love with a boy. He asked me to marry him and I refused. He says I'm a snob. I am too young to marry. He got angry at me and went with a girl friend of mine for spite. She told him a lot of untrue things about me, but he says he doesn't believe a word she told him and now he wants to go with me again.

What would you advise me to do? Mother doesn't care if I go with boys. Do you think I am too young?

Yes, I think you are too young to go with boys and consider yourself in love with one of them. It is only natural to have boy friends in the neighborhood and at school, but you are too young to have evening callers or to go places with boys except to school and neighborhood parties. Since you like the boy who wants to come to bed with him, come back as a friend, but tell him he must not talk of love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: All of the girls I go with have pretty curled-up eyelashes. Mine stand straight out. I have tried everything. I can think of to curl them, but it has no effect. I asked my friends several times what to do, but they seem not to want to tell me.

What do you think they use? Without a doubt your friends have eyelashes that curl up naturally. The other kind are pretty, too, and it is

MARKETS EXHIBIT HITS HIGH SPOTS

To Make Wisconsin Products Exposition an Annual At-fair in States.

Milwaukee — The Wisconsin Products exposition, the first event of its kind in the history of the country in which farmer, the manufacturer, the banker and the state have united in a great cooperative marketing venture opened here.

The features of the opening were the address of Governor John J. Blaine, who officially dedicated the exposition to "A Greater Wisconsin" and the crowning of the twin queens of Wisconsin, Miss Rosella M. McGinn, of Kenosha representing upstate Wisconsin and Miss Peggy Urell, representing this city and county. Each of the twin queens were presented with an automobile, and the coronation ceremonies were performed in Louis XV costumes.

Every available inch of the auditorium was crowded with approximately 525 exhibits representing every phase of Wisconsin industry.

Many Exhibits

Among more than 525 exhibits were represented 50 cities and counties outside Milwaukee.

The place of honor in the exposition had been assigned to Wisconsin agriculture, and prominent among the exhibits were those of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association, The Wisconsin Grain Growers, Wisconsin Experiment association, Wisconsin Horticultural society, Dairy Council, various cheese interests, together with various county exhibits.

Among the features of industrial Wisconsin was the exhibit of the Wisconsin Paper manufacturers and also the aluminum booth, which showed the actual manufacturing and spinning of an aluminum kettle.

In addition to the twin queens of the Exposition, eight maids of honor from throughout the state were guests of the Exposition for the first two days.

According to officials of the Exposition it has already been voted to make this a permanent and annual affair, and the dates Dec. 1 to 5 have been set aside for next year. The showing will continue this year through Dec. 20.

Harry Haggart Kiwanis Head

Harry Haggart, president of the First National bank, was elected president of the Kiwanis club at the annual meeting Thursday night at the Grand hotel following the weekly dinner. Walter Kohler, of the Janesville Products company, was elected vice president and Marvin Beck, cashier of the Rock County National bank, treasurer for the third time. Rev. Raymond Pierson again was selected as trustee and Henry Solomon, Leo Tenney and Paul Korst are the new directors.

The new officers are to be installed at the first meeting in January. Some of the things Kiwanis has done and some of the organization hopes to do in the future were discussed and reports of officers were made to the club.

One of the reports presented was that the clinic for underprivileged children and for which work of welfare the Kiwanis is pledged as a part of the program for the coming year has already been established at Mercy hospital, in operation, and that the children are already being cared for. Other welfare work will also be taken up by the committee of the club and funds made available by the musical show will be used for these purposes as well. The clinic as established now is free and the staff of Mercy hospital is enthusiastically enlisted in the work.

One of the big things emphasized by the Kiwanis is the harmonious cooperation with all other agencies in the city in doing things worth while.

LOCKED THE DOORS BECAUSE 2-PAGE AD BROUGHT THE CROWDS

The following contains much food for thought, telling clearly as it does the splendid results obtained by advertisers through the use of large advertising space in The Gazette:

JANESVILLE DEPT. STORE
Janesville, Wisconsin.
Dec. 1, 1922.

Gentlemen:

Referring to our advertisement in Tuesday night's edition, Dec. 12th, announcing our sale to open Thursday, December 14th, you will probably be pleased to learn that despite the miserable rain and almost impassable city streets, at nine o'clock a crowd of about 250 people were waiting for the doors to open.

Fifteen minutes later it was necessary to lock the doors and keep them locked the remainder of the day. The same condition prevailed over Friday and Saturday.

Our sales passed all former records and although we added fifteen salespeople to our regular force, as it was inadequate.

Please reserve some more good space for us next week.

Yours very truly,
DURION V. BORUZZAK.

"CO-OP" METHODS BACKED IN EUROPE

Farm Bureau Speaker Declares
Foreign Associations
Paying Dividends.

Chicago — Cooperative agricultural organizations in foreign countries, with one exception, are paying dividends through increased prices for products which farmers sell, and lower prices for the articles they purchase, asserted Samuel Adams, president of the American Agricultural Extension Association, speaking Tuesday before the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Adams visited Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Holland, Finland, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium and France, as a representative of the federation, to study agricultural organizations and laws.

Great Britain was the one country in which agricultural co-operation is not a success due, he stated, to the fact that "it was organized by government appropriations and not through a demand from the farmers."

"In every country visited," said Mr. Adams, "I was told it was necessary to build up a land owning farming class to stand between the radical workers and reactionary capitalists and nobility."

In Norway, less than six percent are tenant farmers compared with 40 percent in this country. In Sweden, the farmers' political party is a factor in protecting the farmers' interests while in Finland the government has purchased much land and is leasing it up into $5,000 small farms.

The farmers of Denmark sell 90 percent of their products through cooperative societies and in Germany the farmers are thoroughly organized. In France the Union Central, B. Des Syndicates De France has a membership of 1,500,000 with 11,000 affiliated societies.

Mr. Adams spoke also of the work of Ernest Larr, president of the Swiss Farmers' League, who, he said, saved them from ruin by having the government lease a portion of the less on export dairy products, which declined in price during 1922, following increased production at the government's request.

Elkhorn—Two Rivers has been chosen as the 1923 meeting place for the Wisconsin boys' band tournament. This was decided at a conference at Madison this week attended by Supt. Charles Jahr and H. J. Charlton, Elkhorn. Twenty schools were represented at the meeting.

STORES HAVE BIG ARRAY OF CANDIES

Profusion of Nuts Also Gives Evidence of Christmas' Approach.

Nuts and Christmas candies in profusion are now seen in local stores, vying for honors with bright colored fruits, such as oranges, grapes, bananas and grapefruit, for Christmas decoration and filling of stockings. Candy cases are filled with hard and soft candy of all kinds and colors. Many have attractive displays, and all are making attractive bargains, so that Christmas candy will be in the reach of all. Christmas is the one day of the year when everybody has some luxury, and it takes the form of candy and an excellent meal to most.

There is a greater range in the price of Christmas candy than anything on the market at present. Lowest prices are 17 cents for the bulk soft sugar and hard candy, while as high as $1.55 and $1.50 are being asked for the fanciest of chocolates in bright colored boxes, embellished and otherwise decorated in Christmas colors. Steps taken by the health authorities insure cleanliness and safety of all candy sold here. Bulk candy runs up to 35 and 40 cents for the ordinary Christmas varieties, while of course, the chocolates and other candy sold the year around can be had at any price up to $1 a pound, bulk. One local store is handling a dozen varieties of Christmas candy, none running more than 25 cents, and expects to sell three tons.

Nuts are slightly lower in price than they were last year. The last two weeks have seen grocers stocking up on them heavily, and now practically all stores are ready to handle the Christmas demand, which starts about now. The price range is from 13 to 40 cents and higher for the special varieties, while the different kinds to choose from include hickory, black walnuts, English walnuts, brazil, almonds, filberts and pecans.

Among the fanciest items seen in the stores for Saturday trade are brussels sprouts at 25 and 30 cents quart; vegetable oysters, 10 cents bunch; Italian cheese, 20 cents pound; spinach, 2 pounds 25 cents; wax peppers, sweet, 16 cents each; celery, cabbage, 12 cents pound; parsley, 5 cents bunch; tangerines, 10 cents dozen; fresh mushrooms, 75 cents pound; fruit baskets, made up by the special varieties, while the usual winter fruits and vegetables are seen, standing at the same price of last week.

Holly and evergreen are also seen in profusion now, in the form of trees, wreaths, sprigs and branches. Small branches of holly sell for 25 and 30 cents a pound, much better than many a special variety, but 10 cents a good-sized bunch; evergreen and holly wreaths are 15 cents and higher apiece, and trees sell at a range of from 35 to a dollar high each.

Following are the staple articles: Apples, Baldwin's, Greenings, Delicious, Winesap, Beauties, Kings and Jonathans all the way from 5 cents each to 5 pounds for a quarter, in great profusion, as they have been all this fall and winter; oranges, chiefly the California variety, as the Florida's are almost gone, 30 to 75 cents dozen, more reasonable and said to be much better than last year; grapes, 15 to 20 cents; grapefruit, 3 for 25 cents and a shilling each; lemons still at 60 cents a dozen; bananas, 12 cents pound; cranberries, 17 to 20 cents pound; celery, 15 and 20 cents bunch and stalk; head lettuce, up to 25, 30 and 35 cents each; leaf lettuce, same price per pound; green onions, 10 cents different sized bunches; dry onions, 6 pounds for quarter; Spanish onions, twice that price; red cabbage, 5 cents per pound; ordinary cabbage, 5 cents per head; squash and pumpkin, 13 and 15 cents each; rutabaga, 4 cents pound; potatoes, 70, 80 and 90 cents bushel; sweet potatoes, Virginians, 8 pounds for a quarter. Much more expensive: cold storage eggs, 30 and 42 cents dozen; strictly fresh, hard to secure, 52 and 60 cents dozen; butter, 54 and 60 cents pound.

The biggest week of the year for grocers will begin Monday.

FORT ATKINSON

Fort Atkinson—Miss Leona Westphal returned from her trip to Honolulu on Tuesday night. She has been away for three months, two of which were spent on the islands. Most of her time and spent at Schofield Barracks, some distance out from Honolulu where she was the guest of Capt. and Mrs. E. G. Gehhart. Captain Gehhart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gehhart of this city. Miss Westphal stated that she enjoyed the wonderful climate but that life there was much quieter than in the states. She coming home winter she did, although the rainy season which was just beginning.

The scenery is much the same as that of California and palms and pepper wood trees are everywhere and although very beautiful, she likes Wisconsin better.

She went by way of San Francisco but came home by way of Los Angeles, docking at Wilmington on Nov. 28. She was on week on the water and Dettie Compton's moving picture company was on the same boat. They had been filming "The White Lily" which will be released in the spring.

On her way home she visited for two weeks with the family of John Robbins, former Fort people who are living in Pasadena. She found Pasadena very beautiful. She says the homes in Hawaii do not compare with those in the states for beauty.

John Kindin, vice president of the Fort Atkinson Savings bank, is very seriously ill. Dr. Zuckerman from Oconomowoc was in attendance on Wednesday.

The Brotherhood meeting of the Methodist church, the first of a series of five to be held this winter, was held in the church parlors Wednesday night. A 6:30 dinner was served. Plans for the winter's work were discussed.

The first semester of the Vocational Night School closed on Tuesday night. The attendance has been very good, an average of 50 per cent being maintained. The second semester will begin early in January.

Various organizations in the high school are planning entertainments to raise money for a new moving picture machine.

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET.
Edgerton—The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter Friday says:
"The contracts to sell the pool of 1922 tobacco are now history. By this act about one-third of the total quantity of 1922 tobacco is disposed of. What the average price will prove to be can not be known until the tobacco is stripped and each grade weighed. Neither can it be known what the total sold will amount to, in money. The pool low grades may bring from one and one-quarter to one and three-quarters million dollars. Emerson, Ill., the legal counsel of the pool, stated in the meeting of the pool of fields and bankers last Friday that he, after checking up the contracts reported, knew that at least 75 per cent of the tobacco acreage of the state, based on the 1920 figures, is covered by pool contracts. Government statistics for 1922 place the Wisconsin tobacco crop at less than 18 million pounds. Seventy-five per cent of this will make the million pounds owned by the pool. If these figures are correct, the pool may have approximately 25 million pounds of tobacco of the average 1920, less the trash and unfit to be thrown out. If this last figure proves correct, the contracts will represent the higher of the two total values mentioned above. By the same sign only 12 million pounds remain outside of the pool, or about 10,000 acres."

"Reports from the field indicate that an average equal to this figure is already contracted for, and there is considerable independent acreage yet unsold, especially in the southern counties. There is a discrepancy somewhere, but this will be accounted for when the final check is made. The big news is that the pool has sold its remaining tobacco. The next big thing is that the bankers are considering how they may back the pool financially. In these transactions the experienced hand of Mr. E. G. has made itself felt to the distinct advantage of the pool. The disposal of the lot left for auction is the next move of importance. The bankers are placing their probable wants before the pool sales manager now. The nature of the contract to cover this portion of the pool holdings has not been divulged, if, indeed, it has been given its final draft.

"Meanwhile stemming crops held by independent growers are going at prices which have touched 11 1/2c. At these figures, crops containing no more percentage of binders will be stripped for stemming, lowering the year's quota of cigar leaf available for the manufacturer."

Women Bowlers Boost Big Mark

Steady improvement in scattering the pins was shown in the X. W. C. A. league Thursday night when the Lewis took their 1,007 for high two games for a team and the Rodgers tumbled 584 for best single game. In addition, Miss Hill of the Rodgers, came through with a 250 for second high individual score. Miss Fitzpatrick of the Marshalls smothered a 142 score.

In team work, the Lewis took both from the Cherris, one by nine; the Rodgers two from the Marshalls, one by six; the All Stars two from the Marshalls and the Crescents two from the Marshalls.

Common Council Proceedings

Great Response Is Expected for Garment Matinee

Homes of Janesville are being ransacked from cellar to attic by boy and girl members of these households in search of discarded wearing apparel that may be taken to the Myers theater for the garment matinee Monday at 4:15. The youngsters will doubtless get as much joy out of this ransacking in the interest of the needy children of the city, as they will out of the fine program of movies and unique Maribanda band music which the theater will furnish. While one garment or one pair of shoes will be sufficient to admit one child to the show, there is no restriction against bringing several articles. The Salvation Army can use everything from baby clothes to men's overcoats, and it is hoped that the garment matinee will bring together enough clothing to carry the needy folk of the city through the entire winter. If all the unused garments saved away in clothes closets and attics could be collected at this time, the amount of money that charitable organizations will be called upon to expend for clothing this winter would doubtless be reduced to a very small sum.

The Home League of the Salvation Army will remodel garments to meet the needs of children, but it is desirable that as much children's clothing as possible be brought to the matinee. Within the past week the Salvation Army discovered a home where several children were obliged to sleep on

Today's Blunder Corrected

By ARTHUR C. LUEDER.
Postmaster, City of Chicago.

Do you wait until the last minute to mail Christmas letters and packages? Some people are so forgetful enough to mail their Christmas letters and packages in time for delivery before Christmas; many others, just as generous, but less thoughtful, wait until the last minute and then their Christmas mail into the post office in a perfect deluge, with the result that thousands of little folks, and grown-ups too, are disappointed and perhaps their Christmas is spoiled because a letter or package is delayed and not delivered until after Christmas.

Packages mailed before the end of town delivery early in the week beginning December 11th, and for city delivery during the week ending December 16th. Such letters and packages may be endorsed "Do Not Open Until Christmas."

NO RULING MADE AGAINST APPLAUSE

Audience May Applaud if it Desires, "Messiah" Leaders Decide.

"The Messiah" audience here next Tuesday night after listening to the oratorio presented by a chorus of 250 voices, may follow its own feelings in applauding the arrangements committee for the affair decided Wednesday night. They have expressed themselves as feeling that the people realize the sacredness of this massive piece, and that applause at the end is given only as an expression of the feeling of appreciation of the audience and that it does not destroy the sacredness of the sacred atmosphere produced by "The Messiah." Prof. J. F. Springer, directing the Janesville Community Chorus and the Milton Normal Union for the second annual presentation, is adverse to dictating to the audience whether or not to applaud, even after one of the attending solos or at the end of the oratorio. The most popular of all. The desire to applaud is inherent in most people, and a repression of this desire causes a feeling of incompleteness, and also causes embarrassment to both the performers and the audience, he says.

C. C. to Provide Cars
Next to the last rehearsal Wednesday night at library hall was well attended. Prof. Springer announced that the Chorus Union would send 750 people here Tuesday night. Arrangements were also made for transportation of the 75 Janesville singers to Milton Monday night. The Chamber of Commerce will furnish cars, to leave that office at 6 p. m. On arriving there, a last rehearsal will be held and a supper served before the oratorio is started.

Harry Phillips, Maracopolis, bass, and one of the star soloists of the occasion, will sing that famous aria, "The Trumpets Shall Sound," accompanied by the orchestra. It is announced here before, a fact that has been regretted, as it is said to be one of the most beautiful arias of the whole presentation.

Single tickets are now on sale at six down town stores—Not's, People's Drug, Kuhlows, Diehl's-Drummond's, McKenzies, and the Reliable Drug; and a committee is making a house to house canvass. Due to the largeness of the committee's work, all 500 tickets will probably be sold before the concert starts here Tuesday night. They are 75 cents each. J. A. Spitzer places H. J. Dane on this committee.

The Apollo club, sponsoring the oratorio and giving it as one of its four concerts, is selling season tickets for $3, and already reports 400 sold. The church holding but 300 people. Last year 1,000 people witnessed the first presentation of this oratorio, now assured annual presentation here. Many from here are planning to go to Milton Monday night in addition to hearing it here.

Closer Check on Purchases Planned

For a closer check on city purchases, City Clerk E. J. Sartell has ruled that a city order shall be necessary on all purchases and in order to enforce it he is notifying merchants and others that they will get their money more quickly when they deal along with their bills.

Mr. Sartell has issued the following notice: "All invoices presented to the City of Janesville must, for payment, from and after this date have the city purchase order attached. 'Insist on the city order from the representative that creates any indebtedness of any nature against the city of Janesville. These orders must be attached to the invoices when they are presented at my office for payment. You will get your money a whole lot faster this way.'"

"Thanking you for your cooperation."
